Finding yourself

Do not for a minute think age has anything to do with the amount of time you spend looking for lost stuff. You might think teens are glued to their phones, unless you've been asked to drive that phone/homework/band T-shirt to unite with your child. Tweens and twiftys (tween 40s and 50s) spend time looking for the remote, purses and car keys, so EZ-Find is a product for everyone. A wireless remote sends signals over a 60-foot indoor range, through floors, walls and cushions and sounds a 92 decibel alarm to find up to 25 personalized descriptions. It's a little intimidating to get it all working, but it pays off by reducing frustration later.
